moderate element said they welcomed the development of Turkey by foreigners who were willing to bring in wealth for this purpose and the American open door was entirely admissible. The more extreme group, however, repeated the well-known radical view of the Nationalists that foreigners are not wanted because they meddle in internal politics.

As formal peacemaking on Sunday

As formal peacemaking on Sunday is objected to, the delegates will pass to-morrow in private meetings, after further wrestling with the Turkish frontiers in Thrace and the status of the Egean Sea Islands to-day. The task of defining the boundaries of Asiatic Turkey where they join the Frenci. and British zones in Syria and Mesopotamia will begin Monday.

The Allied delegations will have ample time to-morrow to discuss informally the American note and to decide whether they can afford to defy the affitude of the United States. The question of the Mosul oil area, which the British agreed at San Remosiould provide France a certain percentage of output, will be discussed in a new light, since the Child observation opens the door there if it again becomes a part of Turkey, as well as all other exploitable territory under discussion here.

LAUSANNE, Nov. 25 (By The Associated Press).—The text of Child's address follows:

"It is not and will not be the concern of the representatives of the United States to express at this conference views which have not for their bases the legitimate national interests of the United States or those of homanitarian consideration, which I assume are thared by every delegate present.

"We will, however, and I trust acceptably, state, when the occasion arises, the position of the United States. We believe that a convenient and appropriate occasion has now arisen.

"It is not felt that arrangements previously made with respect to Turkish territory which provide for the establishment of zones of special commercial and economic influence—such, for example, as the tri-partite agreement of 1920—are consonant with the principle of the equality of economic opportunity. It is assumed that the Alised powers will not now desire, and do not now intend, to carry into effect previous arrangements of this nature.

"The United States has no desire, take any action which mighs important to secure peace. It desires nothing which need conflict with the interests of other countries, if the principle of commercial opportunity for all nations is recognized at the outset.

While no comment was forthcoming from Secretary of State Hughes or other officials of the State Department, it was made known that the American delegation at Lausanne had been specifically instructed to inform the conference of the traditional American policy of equality of rights whenever any subject was before the conference in which these interests were intimated by or remotely involved.

Late Buying Urged to Foil Turkey Profiteer

Despite the contention of the wholesale and retail poultry dealers that Thanksgiving turkeys are scarce, and will cost the consumer from 70 to 75 cents a pound, Commissioner Edwin J. O'Malley of the Department of Public Markets said yesterday that the retail price should not be more than 50 cents. The Commissioner said he had information that fifty-nine carloads of live poultry, including twentynine carloads of turkeys, were being held on the tracks in New Jersey in an effort to create a shortage so that higher prices can

James G. McDonald Hopes Clemenceau Visit Will Do MoreHarmThan Good

Speakers at a luncheon of the Foreign Policy Association at the Hotel Astor yesterday voiced praise of Premier Musolini and commented at length upon his spectacular rise to power in Italy and upon the achievements of the Fascisti. The Fascisti form of government was referred to as "an intelligent and coherent democracy attained by insurrection, as worked out by the ap-plication of theories which Mussolini holds."

The visit of Clemenceau to this country also was spoken of.

The principal speakers were Countess Irene di Robilant, of the Italy-America Society; Dr. Arthur Livingston, formerly professor of Italian at Columbia University, and James G. Uphold Open Door Plea

Associated Press) .-- America's insistence that equal economic opportunity in Turkish territory for all nations must be assured, proved especially interesting to the Japanese delegation, whose country has received so many communications from the United States government concerning the open door and equal opportunity in China. The United States, therefore probably will find in the Japanese at Lausanne active advocates of her doctrine of equal opportunity in the Near East.

The Japanese hope to negotiate direct commercial treaty with Turkey when the Lausanne conference settles the future position of foreigners and foreign interests in Turkey with respect to juridical treatment, taxation and customs tariffs.
